BAMA BUNINESS It is becoming a common thing for Washington correspondents to publish accounts of alleged "interviews" with prominent men. The New York Herof the allies, who accused him of having ald's Washington correspondent gives a long account of one of these "interviews" with Senator Sumner on the subject of the excitement created by his speech in Eagland. The Senator thinks there need be no apprehension of war, as both nations are too sensible for that. He effect was suppressed by the English voted to his cause, he would have no government. The following is a portion more hesitation in shooting him than he

of the alleged interview: Correspondent - How does Mr. Thorn. | former Minister. It is certainly ominous that nothing should have been heard ton, the British Minister, take the from McMahon in all this time, and cause Mr. Sumner-Mr. Thornton is now absent from the city. I have not seen him but once since I delivered my speech, and that was the day after, when I met him at dinner. He seemed to be very calm then. He is not the kind of man to make war. Correspondent-Mr. Senator, do you think the Alabama business can be amicably arranged? Mr. Sumner-I hope so. When the British Government and people under-stand our position better, I think much of the difficulty will vanish. You see, they say, "What is the use of such an intense feeling on the part of the Americans about a few ships? John Bull could put his hand in one of his pockets and pay the damages in an hour." But that is not exactly the point. They don't look at it as we do. They don't take into consideration the injury they have done us. As Richard Cobden said, they might as well have battered down all our cities on the scaboard. The injury Great Britain has inflicted on us is greater than it was in the War of 1812; much greater. We have defined our position now, and I have reason to know there will be no yielding. We ask nothing but what is fair, and our people mean

CUBA.

What the London Papers Say of the Besigns of the United States. The London Morning Post of the 22d ultimo observes :

to have justice at least.

The West Indies, with the exception of Hayti, which is independent, pertain to several European Powers-to Great Britain, France, Spain and the Netherlands, and one of the Islands (St. Bartholomew) belongs to Sweden. It is quite apparent, therefore, that a blow struck by the United States at one of the group would practically be struck at all, and it would be no unreasonable presumption that if Cuba was wrested from Spain, Jamaica might in turn be taken from England and Martinique from France. The question, therefore, of a possible combination presents itself. But whatever community of interest has existed between Great Britain and France in dealing with European affairs, Spain, although geographically a Western Power, has for a variety of reason long been thrown out of account.

It is impossible (the Post continues to shut our eyes as to what is passing on the American continent or to the obvious bent of American policy. The recent acquisition of the Danish possessions in the West Indies, and the purchase of the profitless and barren territory which pertained to Russia in Northwestern America, are evidences of a desire on the part of the United States to acquire pieceme all pessessions on the mainland or adjoining it which belong to European powers. The only matter in doubt is whether, when the American government is unable to induce a sale, it will endeavor to effect an annexation. That, if such should be the design of the President and his advisers, they should begin with the Spanish possessions is natural enough. Spain is the weakest of the three Powers holding substantial posses-sions in the West Indies, and peculiar formation from New York is correct. Since it was received the assertions have been so far verified that the Spaniards having seized the Mary Lowell, which was hovering suspiciously on the coast and attempting to communicate with the insurgents, the American Government have sent a large iron-clad fleet to demand her restitution. The Spaniards will, no doubt, make a brave light for their possession, but it may be snatched from their grasp before a tripartite alliance can be formed for the joint defense of European West Indian possessions. In these days the fail accompli is a triumphant answer to all remonstrance, and if Gen. Grant seizes Cuba, it is more than questionable whether England and France would make it a casus belli, European West Indian possessions. In France would make it a casus belli, and seek to wrest his prey from his grasp: "Grant is new run mad on the subject of Cuba, and will undoubtedly give aid in some manner to wrest that island from Spain. Whether that would be complacently looked upon by France and England, you have a letter opportunity of judging than I have. But the complications which would arise might involve this country in war with European Powers. The feeling against England and France and Spain is being carefully worked up in Congress and in the public press, so as to prepare the people for the steps which Grant desires to take. He and his intimate friends ardently long for a foreign war. This will not only give acquisition of territory, but will afford ample field for honor and give a new lease of power to the present administration. The entire feeling pervading the ligh officials is one of hatred to England, and to France in a less degree. In a day or two a yacht will leave here for Cuba, ostensibly for the purpose of a pleasure party. Its real mission is to earn the exact condition of affairs and to communicate with the leaders of the Cubanse. The persons on board will be informed what to do by this Government The coast of the island is so guarded by Spanish cruisers that it is impossible for larger vessels to run in, and several expeditions have been run off lately and ailed in landing. The Fenian organization is active and in readiness to move against the British possessions as soon as any difficulty arises, and the highest officers of the army and navy look to a serious quarrel at an early day. With mands on the Alabams question. Knowing what I do, I forewarm you that there is a heavy storm browing ahead.

Where pretexts are desired, however, pretexts are easily found, and it may be for France and Great Britain to determine whether, in the event of these derigns on Cuba being carried into execution, they will aid Spain in retaining her colony or calmly look on.
